Corporate websites usually provide information for investors, information about the company including history, products or services, news, careers, etc.

Corporate websites usually provide the latest company reports.